

Benefits Package of Membership

Serving the employment industry since 1967¹, the World Employment Confederation plays a pivotal role in advancing the sector's profile, development and reputation. Our comprehensive range of added value services and professional support are focussed on protecting and promoting the interests of the employment industry in order to enhance its sustainable growth. All these services are free of charge for members (except the participation to the annual World Employment Conference).

1. Advocating for the Employment industry

- Pro-active advocating activities at global (International Labour Organisation, OECD, World Bank, IMF, IOM), European (EU Institutions) and national level
- Monthly Advocacy Report monitoring any new development regarding public affairs topics impacting the employment industry
- Compilation of conditions & restrictions on agency work at national level
- Publication of Efficiency Regulatory Index on private employment services
- Organising social dialogue with trade unions (EU and global level)

2. Profiling the Employment industry

- Publication of annual Economic Report
- Strategic research carried out every 5 years
- Monthly Agency Work Business Indicator (EU)
- Strategic partnership with ADAPT, an international network of universities to influence key academics

3. Sharing Strategic Information and best practices

- Annual "World Employment Conference" to discuss main international employment trends with industry's representatives and policymakers from all around the world
- Board, Committee & General Assembly meetings
- Information Hub for sharing restrictive access documents & best practices
- Quarterly ad hoc webinars for members only
- Membership to major international think tanks (CEPS, EPC)

4. Capacity Building & Quality Standards

- A Head Office staff comprised of 5 full time employees to support members
- Initiating the establishment of national associations on private employment agencies
- Internal seminars to strengthen professionalism and efficiency of members
- Promotion of strengthened quality standards (Fair Recruitment Initiative)
- Benchlearning exercise and publication of compendium practices

5. Thought leadership on the Changing World of Work

- Publication of opinion pieces, books and report on the Future of Work
- Speaking at international conferences
- Contributing to public hearings & consultation

Interested? Please contact Denis Pennel, Managing Director of the World Employment Confederation (denis.pennel@wecglobal.org), to know more about the requirements to become a member of the World Employment Confederation.

¹ Prior to 2016, the World Employment Confederation was operating under the Ciett name.